

Sequence

1. Firstly, secondly, thirdly:

- Explanation: Used to list points or steps in order, typically in a structured argument or description.
- Example: "Firstly, we need to gather all the materials. Secondly, we should read the instructions carefully. Thirdly, we can begin assembling the parts."

2. Next:

- Explanation: Used to indicate the following step in a sequence of actions or events.
- Example: "Mix the ingredients thoroughly. Next, pour the mixture into the baking pan."

3. Then:

- Explanation: Used to indicate what happens immediately after another action or event in a sequence.
- Example: "We finished our meeting. Then, we headed to lunch."

4. Afterward:

- Explanation: Used to refer to an action or event that takes place later than a previously mentioned one.
- Example: "We had a wonderful dinner. Afterward, we went for a walk in the park."

5. Meanwhile:

- Explanation: Used to indicate an action or event occurring at the same time as another action or event.
- Example: "I started cooking dinner. Meanwhile, she set the table."

6. Finally:

- Explanation: Used to indicate the last action or event in a sequence.

- Example: "Bake the cake for 30 minutes. Finally, let it cool before serving."

7. Ultimately:

- Explanation: Used to indicate the final outcome or conclusion of a series of actions or events.
- Example: "He worked hard all year. Ultimately, his efforts paid off with a promotion."

8. Subsequently:

- Explanation: Used to describe something that follows or comes after something else in time.
- Example: "She completed her degree. Subsequently, she found a job in her field."